Rare earths in our products

Due to the tense trading relationship between China and the USA, "rare earths" have also come into focus, as there is a possibility that China will no longer supply the USA with the necessary raw materials.

Glyn GmbH & Co KG is an authorised distributor of electronic parts and components. As a distributor, we are unfortunately unable to make material declarations, as we do not have specific knowledge of the production process or the ingredients in the products we sell. With regard to the ingredients, we are 100% dependent on the information and declarations provided by the respective manufacturer.

Glyn is a member of the FBDi (Fachverband der Bauelemente Distribution e.V.) and is actively involved in the relevant environmental and compliance committees, which work with legislators and manufacturers to develop practical solutions.

We will pass on any information concerning this topic to our customers as soon as we receive it.
